

LEGEND OF Mansaborá

Re-conquest of the city

Legend has it that Cáceres was reconquered through the deception of a Christian captain of a Moorish princess, whom he seduces to get the keys to enter the city.

A battle won

The Christian troops were able to enter through the secret passage and the ambushed Muslims lost the battle. It was April 23, the feast of San Jorge.

The enchantment

The princess's father, before dying and furious about the deception, set a curse upon his daughter. He turned her into a hen and her servants into chicks covered with golden feathers, making them wander eternally through the city's passages.
